

Anna Shaw Children's Institute

My grown up and I are going to Anna Shaw
Children's Institute...

The building is big. It has a lot of windows and flowers.

When I walk in the building my grown up will check in and get a name tag. I will try to wait.

My grown up will go to a desk to sign papers. I will try to wait.

I can look around the lobby and play with toys.

When my name is called, I will see a nurse. At Anna Shaw Children's Institute, there are no boo-boos or owies. We can have fun here.

The nurse needs my help with a few things.

Height and Weight

The nurse needs to know my height and weight. I will stand on this square. It can be quick.

Blood Pressure

The nurse needs to know how strong my muscles are. She will give my muscle a hug with this cloth. It can be quick.

Measurement

The nurse needs to know how big my brain is. She will measure my head. It can be quick.

Hearing

The nurse needs to know how well I can hear. This soft wire (like an earbud) will touch my ear. It makes a little sound. 😊 It can be quick.

It is time for the doctor to come talk with me.
I may swing, play ball, or even do a puzzle.
We can have fun here.

I am all done. I can have a sticker or a stamp.

It is time for my grown up and I to leave the Anna Shaw Children's Institute. 😊
